Columbian Tavern,

SOLOMON DREW takes the present opportunity of returning his grateful thanks to the public, for the liberal encouragement he has received since his commencement in business, and begs leave to assure them that no exertion has been spared to render his establishment convenient for the reception of travellers and a desirable house for respectable boarders. His stock of wines, liquors, beer, &c. have been selected with attention, and he trusts they will be found not inferior to any in the district. His stabling is fitted up in the best manner, and well adapted for travellers, or others who wish to have their horses kept by the month, week, or otherwise. At the suggestion of some of his friends, he has appropriated a part of his house to the Oyster Business, where will be furnished oyster suppers in the most comfortable manner and reasonable terms.

N. B. The subscriber will carry on the Taverning business as heretofore, and returns his acknowledgments to his customers in that line, for favors received and hopes to merit their future support. Oct. 21

Notice.

DIFFICULTIES arising from the nature of the following work, the publisher has been compelled to remove to Philadelphia for the better execution of his plan. The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN's present engagement rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. The friends and relations of the different signers to the Declaration of Independence are therefore requested to direct their favors to the publisher, No. 443, Market-street, Philadelphia.

PROPOSALS

By Joseph M. Sanderson,
For Publishing by Subscription,
A Biography of the Signers
OF THE
Declaration of Independence,

Accompanied with Plates.
To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exercise of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprises of man, none has awakened into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorable prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptible rights of humanity by the mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors; and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world; their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.— Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the state of Brutus harbored death in its bosom.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the slumbers of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his but the emblems of his father's valor.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the passage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.
I. The work will be published in numbers of half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontispiece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery.

WONDERFUL MECHANISM.

Mr. S. Tilly, from London, advertises in a New-York paper, that he will exhibit the whole art of fancy glass blowing, spinning and reeling hot glass round a wheel, with the astonishing velocity of a mile in less than two minutes; blowing glass to different degrees of thickness, and forming it into various articles, such as writing pens, smelling bottles, &c. He will blow a small globe, which will form nearly a vacuum, and fall to the floor with apparent great weight. The hydro pneumatic fountain will be exhibited, and a small glass man will ascend and descend in a bottle of water; glass will be divided into some hundreds of parts in a second of time.

We this day publish a detailed account of the proceedings of a tumultuous meeting in Scotland. The hostility of the British reformists has hitherto been evinced only in England; but the contagion appears to be spreading, and may produce the most serious consequences, if not seasonably checked by mild and conciliatory measures. On the 17th September, an address was presented to the Prince Regent, on the subject of the late transactions at Manchester. The Prince replied, that "to institute an inquiry under such circumstances as the present, would be manifestly inconsistent with the clearest principles of public justice." The Courier, (a ministerial paper) in noticing the reception of the address, says, "We rejoice unfeignedly at this severe rebuke, for never, in our most solemn judgment, was an address offered to the Sovereign of these realms under circumstances, which more impudently called for such an answer." It is in this way that the feelings of thousands of the suffering and starving subjects of Great Britain are sported with. Our readers can form for themselves the probable consequences which such a state of things must lead to.

A letter from one of the correspondents of the Norfolk Beacon, of the 21st ult. noticing the effects of the late awful hurricane in the West Indies, states that upwards of 200 persons were killed, from the falling of houses, at St. Bartholomews.

The Boston Gazette remarks, "That the newspapers of the middle and southern states when they mention travelling, properly call a stage coach, a coach;—and not a stage as is the custom in New-England. A stage is a place of rest on a journey, and not the vehicle of conveyance."

The Plattsburg (New-York) Republican of the 23d ult. says, "General Scott arrived at this place yesterday in the steam-boat Congress, and departed in the same boat. A salute was fired from Fort Moresau on his arrival."

The "Massachusetts Spy," the oldest paper in Massachusetts, and for the last 48 years published under the direction of Isaac Thomas, Esq. has been transferred to Messrs. Manning and Trumbull, under whose joint management it is, in future, to be conducted.

Flax Seed, for the use of cattle, is said to be worth 100 per cent more than its accustomed price as an article of merchandize.

PAINFUL INTELLIGENCE.

We stop the press to announce the death of His Excellency Governor RABUN. He died at his residence in Hancock county, on Saturday night last, with the fever.

EVIDENCE OF HARD TIMES.

During the sitting of the Court of Common Pleas, in this village, last week, John Danley was arraigned for horse stealing, and pleaded guilty; he said he stole the horse for the purpose of going to the state prison; his reasons were, that the times were so hard that he could hit upon no other plan so ready and certain to provide him with a home and steady employment. He is a strong, healthy young man; and was, to his great satisfaction, sentenced to the state prison for eight years. [Poughkeepsie paper.]

HOLSTEIN WHEAT.

Brigadier General Dearborn, (says the Hallowell Gazette) with a zeal which he is known to possess in favor of useful objects, and with a partiality which attaches him to Maine, as his birth place, has sent a keg of Holstein wheat to Hallowell, to be distributed through the channel of the Agricultural Society of Maine. A proportion of it will be sent to the Trustees for each county. As Mr. Wyer, the American Consul at Hamburg, who forwarded this wheat, has not signified whether it is summer or winter grain, it will be necessary to make trial of it in both forms.

Letters from N. Orleans, to the 8th inst. represent the fever to be rapidly abating.

PENNSYLVANIA.

The House of Representatives of Pennsylvania is composed of 97 members, of which number there are, according to the political characters given to the Members in the Harrisburg Republican,

Democrats,	63
Federal Republicans,	24
Old School Democrats,	6
New School Democrats,	4
Total,	97
47 of whom are new members.

PRIVATE CORRESPONDENCE.

Extract of a letter to the editor of the Norfolk Herald, dated Gibraltar, Sept. 2.

"Although the treaty is not ratified, it does not appear that it is absolutely rejected, but that the matter is referred once more to Washington, and it will remain with our government to decide what measures they may please to adopt. Meanwhile Mr. Forsyth has taken a house at Madrid, more suitable to his rank, and having more the appearance of his intention to be a permanent resident, which looks somewhat as if he thought that the wishes of Spain were not insuperable. But what is that at the last day of grace is required by Spain, and which could not have been as plainly discerned on the first reading of the treaty, and suggested at that moment so as to have met the approbation of the Spanish government by this time, we must wait patiently to hear from your side of the water.

"Whether there is any sincerity in all this diplomacy on the part of Spain, or whether it is not rather of a piece of that system of procrastination for which she is so remarkable in all her political relations, and especially with the United States, time alone will determine. It appears so odd that any reasonable objections to the treaty which the American minister could have felt himself authorized to listen to, were not made at an earlier period, that the latter suggestion taken in connection with the general dilatory and equivocal policy of Spain is the best received opinion in this country. And how far the prurient disposition of England may have operated to produce this measure as one affording a chance that something may turn up to prevent the ultimate ratification of the treaty, (which she would, if she could, openly prevent) we are also left to conjecture.

"O'Donnell who was to have commanded the expedition from Cadix, and who only a month ago was invested with new honors for his loyalty in suppressing the conspiracy amongst the troops, has been found to be so much implicated in that transaction, that he is banished to Pampeluna. SANSFIELD, second in command, is also in disgrace.

"They write from Madrid, that Portugal has agreed by treaty to give Monte Video to Spain for 28,000,000 rials (1,400,000 dollars). Where the money is to come from nobody knows.

"Orders for fruit are extremely limited this year at Malaga, though the price is 20 per cent less than last season. Very few vessels have appeared—only one from the southward (Baltimore.)

"Markets are not very encouraging—flour 7 1/2 dls; rice 4 1/2. Tobacco has been most active, and considerable sales of the new crop, Kentucky, have been made at 8 1/2 a 1 1/2 dls. according to quality, 60 bbls have been sold at 11 3/4. Colonials are dull. Coffee 22 cts—white Havana sugars 15 dls—bides 16 1/4 dls. per cwt—exchange on London 50—dollars 2 1/4 advance."

Extract of a letter from Charleston, S. C. dated the 21st inst.

"There are immense crops to be bought by somebody as they come to market, say at least 25,000 bales more cotton than were made in this state in any one year before, and full as great a crop in Georgia. Of corn, &c. the crop is so great, that I am informed that it is offered for 25 cents per bushel in our upper country, and many planters have raised as much as they can consume in three years."

From the New-York Daily Adv. Nov. 3.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

By the arrival of the regular packet ship Courier, capt. Bowne, in 30 days from Liverpool, we have received from our correspondents regular files of London papers to Sept. 28th, and Liverpool to the 1st of October, both inclusive. We have also been politely furnished with a regular file of papers by captain Bowne. The papers are filled with accounts of meetings for reform in different parts of the kingdom. The Liverpool Mercury of October 1st mentions them to have taken place at Southwark, Ward of Bishop's Gate, York, Leeds, Birmingham, and Farringdon. The same paper contains a long account of a meeting at Liverpool, on the 29th of Sept. at which the earl of Sefton presided, the object of which seems to have been to express their sentiments on the subject of the meeting at Manchester, on the 16th of August. Much haranguing took place, in which the rev. Mr. Shepherd, Dr. Crompton, col. Williams, Mr. Egerton Smith, Mr.

Ottowell Wood, and others, made distinguished figures. In the course of the discussions an address to the prince regent was read, and received with great applause by the multitude, censuring, in strong terms, the proceedings at Manchester, particularly what is called in the address, systematic opposition to inquiry into those transactions by superficial examinations before the inquests holden over the bodies of those who lost their lives on that occasion. The address was carried without a dissenting voice.

The new queen of Spain had set out from Lyons to proceed to the Spanish frontier.

A great number of Jews had left Germany to seek protection in France.

The number of persons sick with the fever at the Isle de Leon, Spain, on the 14th Sept. was 1313.

REFORM MEETING IN SCOTLAND.

From the New-York Daily Advertiser.

At Paisley, in Scotland, a numerous body of Reformers assembled on the 11th of Sept. During their procession the sheriff and constables disarmed them of their licentious flags, which caused a serious riot, the populace joining the Reformers. Many windows were broken, and much property destroyed. A drapery of black from 4 to 5 feet high was hung in front of the hustings. The speakers were dressed in mourning, and the flags edged with black. Mr. Taylor was then chosen chairman, and addressed the meeting. A number of resolutions, deprecating the conduct of the Manchester magistrates, were passed, and a vote of thanks to J. Peacock, Esq. for allowing the meeting to be held on the Moor.

After the speaker from the east side of Glasgow had spent some time in making severe strictures upon the duplicity and unfeeling conduct of the clergy, the business of the meeting ended with the speaker requiring the people to depart with regularity and good order, and go peaceably home. About the middle of the proceedings a cry of the 'Hussars' rose, and the people fled on all sides, and it was with some difficulty the committee could get them rallied, and order restored.—A collection was made when the people were retiring, for the relief of the Manchester sufferers.—Some light-fingered gentry honored the meeting with their presence. It was supposed there were from 14 to 18,000 people present.

When the people were going home, those from the west, with their flags, and the Neilston band of music, went down Story-street in a compact body, and got quietly out of the town, those from Glasgow were less fortunate. The special constables were ranged on both sides of the High street, with the civil authorities at their head. The first flag was seized at the cross, a scuffle ensued, and the public mind being in a state of the greatest fermentation, an immense crowd instantly collected. The special constables did their utmost to clear the streets, but the mob continually increased—stones and other missiles were thrown with violence—the windows of the council chamber were broken, and similar outrages were committed in other parts of the town; the riot act was read at a little past 10 o'clock, and the mob increasing the cavalry were sent for at 11, and came from Glasgow about 1. When they arrived the people gave them a hearty cheer and immediately dispersed.

Next day as the magistrates were going to church, they were insulted by the populace, and one of the most active of the mob was seized by Baillie Bowie, who with the rest of the magistrates conducted him to goal before proceeding to church.

During the evening of Sunday, gentlemen were generally assailed with stones wherever they were found. About a dozen of the large panes in the coffee-room windows were broken, and the gentlemen prevented by the mob from retiring for about an hour. The cavalry dispersed the mob without using their swords. The prisoners in the police office attempted to force their way out, but were prevented by the watchmen; who were brought from their stations to guard them.

The riot became serious at 7 o'clock. The riot act was read three times before nine.—The windows of the Tontine, Baillie Bowie, Mr. Burns' old and new houses, Dr. Findlay, Birkmyre's warehouse, Baillie Leishman and son, Buchanan of North Bar, Mr. Sharp, captain of the Baton-men, Mr. Limburn and Mr. Pollock's windows, with the lamps of Causey-side; High-street, Story-street, New-st. are all destroyed. The iron railing of the Methodist chapel was torn to pieces, and used as weapons against the cavalry and Baton-men, and the mob charged them clearly up Story-street. All was quiet at one in the morning.

The mob began to assemble about eight o'clock on Monday morning, and continued to increase till one, when the riot act was read, and the cavalry and constables endeavored to clear the streets. Two companies of the 80th arrived at 3 o'clock, piled their arms, and remained in readiness at the cross. In the mean time, the reform committee were met with the provost, and a meeting of the people was held at the foot of St. James-street: about 6 or 8,000 men assembled in an instant to hear the report. The orators spoke as follows: "Gentlemen, we have had a long conference with the provost, and he has pledged his honor, that every person who has sustained any damage in the late outrages, shall have ample justice done him, and should any person accuse any Batonman, of wanton cruelty in the discharge of his duty, the affair shall have a complete and candid investigation; and if the Batonman be found guilty, he shall be brought to condign punishment, though he were his own father. Now, gentlemen, you must disperse, immediately, as the provost is determined to use every effort to keep the peace;" (here the mob shouted, who broke the peace? restore the prisoners, restore the prisoners without bail, give up the flags, &c.) "Our message is delivered, one quarter of an hour only is allowed you to disperse, every man's fate is in his own hand." The great body of the people still continuing in the streets, the military were forced to interfere. The cavalry and Batonmen immediately scoured the streets, and dispersed the mob in every direction. At night every close and lane was searched with torches, and quietness was completely restored at twelve o'clock. All the lamps in George-street, Canal-street, and Broomland-street, were broken at 9 o'clock. Several people were severely hurt with the batons of the constables, but we have not heard of any one being dangerously wounded. All was quiet at 6 o'clock.

When the order arrived at Glasgow from Paisley for the cavalry, the sounding of the bugle brought a great multitude into the streets to hear the news; and we are sorry to say that a number of the poor soldiers were hit with fragments of brick and otherwise hurt. They arrived at the Black Bull Inn at different times; and several of those who were late, having to enquire the road, were by some evil disposed persons misdirected.

Another account from the Glasgow Journal. Monday night our streets exhibited one scene of confusion, alarm and mischief. A body of men and boys, to the amount of nearly 3000, assembled at the east end of the town at darkening, from Bridgeton, Calton, &c. Paisley. It was understood was their place of destination. On their way through Gallowgate-street they left only six whole lamps, and at 8 o'clock, that part of the town was in complete darkness. Breaking lamps in Trongate, Candleriggs, Argyle-street, Stockwell, Glassford-street, they proceeded to the west end of Tradestown, leaving not one on the bridges. On arriving at Bridge-street, they assailed the Methodist Meeting-house there, while the people were at worship, and broke almost every window. The windows in Clyde-street, West-street, Dale-street and King-street, were more or less broken, and the shops of—Jamieson and—Donn, bakers, were broken into, and bread and other articles carried away. John Cochran, spirit dealer, had his house completely emptied of rum, whiskey, porter, &c. and the jars broken to pieces. In Calton, several shopkeepers' shops were ransacked and the windows of many respectable inhabitants broken.

At the Black Bull, the riot act was read by the sheriff at nine o'clock, and the streets, which were in the utmost confusion with predators, and women and men, who had collected from mischief and curiosity, were cleared in a very short time. Two pieces of ordnance, accompanied with a body of infantry, and a troop of hussars, were speedily brought out. We have heard of no particular accident further than at a fire which happened to a small wright's shop in Stockwell, which was soon extinguished; several of the military, by the throwing of stones, from a new building were much annoyed and hurt. Several of the inhabitants received slight-sabre wounds; but owing to the good conduct of the hussars, which deserves the highest praise, nothing of a serious kind happened. At two o'clock this morning, the military retired, leaving a small piquet behind; and till this moment all remains quiet. The house of the rev. Dr. McLean, Gorbals, was also assailed, and the whole windows in the second flat broken. Two hundred and twenty city lamps have been demolished. During the night upwards of 200 men and boys were made prisoners. They have not yet been all examined; but of those more than 30 have been sent to goal to undergo a pre-cognition. Those found in the new house corner of Stockwell, have been wholly sent to prison. At this place the rioters threw a fence, made with tresses and mason planks at the time the fire was burning, across the street to prevent the cavalry and firemen from advancing; besides the military, many of the firemen have got themselves much bruised; as those of the mob who had climbed up into the interior of the new building threw stones indiscriminately on those in the street.

FROM THE SPANISH MAIN.

Capt. Bassett, of the brig Mary, who arrived this morning, in 18 days from Maracaibo, informs, that when he sailed, it was said that the Patriot forces were within 85 miles of that city, and were rapidly advancing.—There were no troops to protect the city.—Capt. Bassett also mentions, that fustic was scarce at that port, and was selling at 10 ds. per ton, exclusive of charges.

Extract of a letter written at sea, in lat. 49, long. 7, dated September 18th, to a gentleman in this city.

"I passed St. Helena on the 25th of July, and was boarded by an officer from a man of war cruising off there, who informed me that Bonaparte was well, but continued sulky; and that he had not left his room for the last two years."

Messrs. Livingston and Sadler ascended in a balloon at Liverpool on the 28th of September. They travelled about 35 miles in about an hour and an half, and descended in safety. The following account of this enterprise, will be perused with interest, by those of our readers, who were lately amused with the ascent of Mr. Guille from this city, and more recently with the rapid and extensive flight of his balloon:—

[N. Y. Com. Advertiser.]

THE BALLOON.—An aerial voyage, notwithstanding the perfection to which the art of aërostation has arrived, may justly be regarded as an undertaking eminently characteristic of human daring. The ascension of an aërostatic machine from this town is, however, an event of rare occurrence. Two only, we believe, have ascended from it. The first balloon ascended in July, 1785, when the art of aërostation was almost in its infancy.—In that year, Lunardi, a native of Italy, and the first person that ascended in a Balloon in England, ascended from the old Fort. The second was in August, 1812, when the venerable and intrepid aëronaut, Mr. Sadler, ascended from Kirkdale. Seven years have rolled by since that period, without the public being gratified by witnessing so magnificent a spectacle.

The ascent of Messrs. Livingston & Sadler yesterday, was therefore, looked for with an interest greatly heightened by the novelty and rarity of the event, and the probability should the wind prove favorable, of Mr. Livingston attempting the daring and hazardous enterprise of crossing the channel to Ireland.

The balloon in which these gentlemen ascended had been some time in preparation.—Its exhibition commenced, in the Music hall on Monday week. Its dimensions were greater than any balloon hitherto made, having been constructed by Mr. Livingston for the express purpose of crossing the channel to Ireland. Its diameter was 32 feet, and its height 38; it contained 31,880 cubic feet of gas, and its power of ascension was equal to 1100 lbs. The form of the car was oval, the ground an azure blue, painted in clouds, having on either side the Star of the Orders of St. George and St. Patrick, and at each the Regent's Plume; a hand rail, and trellis work of gilt, from which were suspended festoons of flowers; the whole surmounted with a canopy of blue and yellow satin. Its decorations were extremely elegant and beautiful, beyond any thing ever witnessed in Liverpool. On Monday evening last the exhibition closed, when the balloon was removed to the area of the House of Industry.

Yesterday was appointed for the ascent. The weather early in the morning seemed rather unfavorable for the purpose, the face of the overcast with masses of the wind blew a fresh south west, and at on hopes of Mr. Livingston's passage to Ireland. I ing, however, the clouds sed; the atmosphere cleared up, and at intervals, with gleams of sunshine.

purpose, the face of the heavens was overcast with masses of dense clouds.—the wind blew a fresh breeze from the south west, and at once destroyed all hopes of Mr. Livingston attempting the passage to Ireland. During the morning, however, the clouds slowly dispersed; the atmosphere partially cleared up, and at intervals, we were cheered with gleams of sunshine.

The company gradually collected in the spacious area of the house of Industry. The galleries on the west side, as well as the rooms in the front of the house, were principally occupied by elegantly dressed females. A considerable part of the company promenaded the area; among whom we noticed most of the rank and beauty of Liverpool and the surrounding country. The band of the 71st regiment, which had come from Chester for the occasion, was stationed in the area, and relieved the tedium till the ascent of the balloon by occasionally playing animating national airs.

The spectators on the outside of the houses were immense. The windows and tops of every house from which a glimpse of the balloon could be obtained were crowded. The Botanic-walk, Moorslake and the other fields in the neighborhood, Edge hill, Low hill, Evertown, in short, every place and every eminence favorable for viewing the balloon teemed with spectators. Never before, we believe, was so immense a multitude congregated on any former occasion in Liverpool.

The process of inflation commenced at an early hour, under the able and scientific direction of Dr. Traill. At half past one, a pilot balloon was launched into the air. It continued in sight a few minutes when it entered a cloud, which concealed it from view. The inflation of the balloon being completed, the car was attached to it. Every preparation was now finished. The signal-guns were fired a little after two o'clock; and a breathless anxiety prevailed for the ascension. At this period, the atmosphere had considerably brightened. The clouds, in the direction of the wind, had ascended, and formed a fleecy and almost spotless field, through which at interval, the azure of the sky was discernible. Messrs. Livingston & Sadler having entered the car, the flags were delivered to the aerial voyagers by the Countess of Sefton and Mrs. Blackburne. The balloon was then loosened, and at sixteen minutes after two, sprung as it were, into the air, amid the congratulations and benedictions of myriads of spectators.

The ascent was most magnificent. It filled the mind of every beholder with overwhelming ideas of the sovereignty of human art and the extent of human daring. The balloon, after hovering over the multitude, and affording them an opportunity of contemplating the sublimity and grandeur of its ascent, began to mount with rapidity; the aeronauts manifested the utmost intrepidity, and unfurling their flags, waved them in the air, bowing at the same time to the innumerable spectators. The balloon took the direction of N. E. by E. It soon attained a great altitude, assumed a globular shape, and gradually diminished in magnitude. When it appeared no larger than "a cloud about the bigness of a man's hand," it was observed to be descending towards the earth; and after having been in the air about 12 minutes, it disappeared below the horizon a little to the east of Evertown. In a few minutes it was seen, ascending again, but much diminished in magnitude.—After continuing in view about thirty-five minutes, it was lost to human ken in the pathless regions of boundless space.

It is difficult to form an opinion of the probable number of spectators at the period of ascension; but including the people from the country, it is probable that it could not be less than eighty thousand. We have not heard of the slightest accident having occurred among this immense multitude to mar the pleasures of this day.

COURIER OFFICE, Wednesday Morning, Half past Ten o'clock.

By the arrival of the Bolton Mail, we learn that Mr. Livingston and his intrepid companion descended safely about four o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the neighborhood of Blackburn, having travelled about thirty-five miles in little more than an hour and an half.

The above account is confirmed, as will appear by the following extract of a letter from a friend at Chorley:—

"Chorley, September 28th.

"I have the pleasure to inform you, the balloon passed direct over Chorley soon after three o'clock, in the direction of Blackburn; from description, moving in a very majestic and steady manner, at times ascending to a very considerable height, at others descending, as if for the purpose of obtaining a more correct view of the terrestrial scenery."

Public Sale.
UNDER the authority of a deed made by the subscribers, by Wm. H. Foote and Benjamin M. Brooke, acting as commissioners under an act of the General Assembly of Virginia, passed on the 21st day of February 1818, entitled, "an act authorizing the sale of certain lands belonging to the heirs of the late Walter D. Brooke," and which said deed was in trust, among other things, to secure to the said commissioners and to the persons entitled to receive the same from the purchasers under said deed the sum of 385 dollars, to be paid on the 19th day of September, 1819, will be sold at public auction, for cash, at 12 o'clock, on Saturday, the 4th day of December next, of the premises, one undivided fourth part of that portion of a certain tract of land, situated in the county of Fairfax and state of Virginia, commonly called which Ann Brooke holds as dower, in her deceased husband's estate, which undivided fourth part, being about 354 acres, will be sold, subject to the life estate of the said widow, Ann Brooke.

Valuable Land for Sale.
PURSUANT to a decree of the Superior Court of chancery for the district of Fredericksburg in Virginia, the undersigned commissioners will proceed to sell at public auction, upon a credit of one, two, and three years, at Middleburg, in the county of Loudon, on Thursday, the 18th day of November next,

4000 Acres of Land,
lying in the neighborhood of Middleburg. The whole land is of that quality termed plaster land, and susceptible of high improvement by the use of it. The whole will be laid out into small tracts, of from two to three hundred acres each, and sold in separate tracts to suit purchasers. The whole is well watered, and no country is more healthy.

Captain Pickett, who lives near the land, and who is employed to make a survey of it; and Mr. Sommers, who is the agent for the collection of the debts, will shew the land to those who may be inclined to purchase. Bond and security, and a deed of trust upon each tract, will be required of the purchaser.

POOR OF BALTIMORE.
By Sympatheticus.

"Inasmuch as ye have done as unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."—Matt. ch. XXIV. v. 40.

The profits arising from the sale of the sermon (which is published at the request of several judicious and benevolent individuals, whom the author highly esteems) will be appropriated by the publisher, in aid of the fund, established at Baltimore, for the relief of the sick and distressed poor of the city. It is hoped by the author and publisher, that the inhabitants of Alexandria, to whom the sermon is addressed, will not suffer this appeal to their benevolence, to be made to them in vain.

Subscribers' names will be received at the Gazette office, or by a person duly appointed for the purpose.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY on the 25th of April last, a man called NED, formerly the property of Mr. Fitzhugh, of Fairfax, and by him sold to Hepburn & Dundas. He had on when he went away an old country blue and white cloth coat, and kersey trousers—his right hand in a sling, in consequence of the kick of a horse. Ned is a stout looking fellow, and hesitates very much when he speaks. I will give fifty dollars if apprehended in the District, or the above reward if apprehended him out of the District, so that I get him again.

ROMULUS RIGGS.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling.

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case; and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or dissatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.
